

Call for Nominations of Outstanding Partnerships That Promote Access to Higher Education for Hispanic Immigrant Workers

Corporation for a Skilled Workforce (CSW), The Center for Workforce Success of the NAM, Excelencia in Education, and the National Council for Workforce Education are joining together to seek nominations of outstanding partnerships between community colleges and manufacturing employers that expand access to college for Hispanic immigrant employees. Selected exemplary programs will be profiled in the project report, invited to participate in a national colloquium on expanding access to and success in higher education, and may be invited to participate in development of pilot programs.

Nominations are welcomed from all parties. Nominations are particularly sought from community colleges, employers, workforce agencies, and Hispanic community agencies. Self-nominations are welcome. For a program to be eligible, it need not be targeted solely at Hispanic immigrant workers. However, it must be supported by a manufacturing employer and have achieved results in expanding Hispanic worker access and success in higher education.

The deadline for nominations is June 1, 2006.
